APRIL. II Month.

On EDUCATION all our Lives depend;
And few to that, too few, with Care attend:
Soon as Mamma permits her darling Joy
To quit her Knee, and truſts at School her Boy,
O, touch him not, whate'er he does is right,
His Spirit's tender, tho' his Parts are bright.
Thus all the Bad he can, he learns at School,
Does what he will, and grows a luſty Fool.

On the 25th of this month, Anno 1599, was OLIVER CROMWELL born, the ſon of a private gentleman, but became the conqueror and protector (ſome ſay the tyrant) of three great kingdoms. His ſon Richard ſucceeded him, but being of an eaſy peaceable diſpoſition, he ſoon deſcended from that lofty ſtation, and became a private man, living, unmoleſted, to a good old age; for he died not till about the latter end of queen Anne's reign, at his lodgings in Lombard-ſtreet, where he had lived many years unknown, and ſeen great changes in government, and violent ſtruggles for that, which, by experience, he knew could afford no ſolid happineſs.

Oliver was once about to remove to New-England, his goods being on ſhipboard; but ſomewhat alter'd his mind. There he would doubtleſs have riſen to be a Select Man, perhaps a Governor; and then might have had 100 buſhels of Indian corn per Annum, the ſalary of a governor of that then ſmall colony in thoſe days.

Great Julius on the mountains bred,
A flock, perhaps, or herd had led;
He that the world ſubdu'd, had been
But the beſt wreſtler on the green. WALLER.
